

ICML Individual Associate Membership Application Form

ICML invites you to support its endeavors to promote excellence in the machinery lubrication industry by becoming a member today.

An associate member is an individual who wants to help support ICML's worldwide initiatives through a USD $160 or $195 annual package. ICML certification is not necessary to hold this membership.

The International Council for Machinery Lubrication continuously seeks individual members who wish to help support our mission while enjoying special benefits of their own. Benefits of Associate Membership include exam discounts, eLibrary subscription, recognition on ICML's website, opportunities for team articles & panels, and use of our "Associate Member" logo. See more at <https://info.lubecouncil.org/membership/>.

Discounted three-year membership option conveniently aligns with your ICML certification.

Your individual involvement with ICML can help involve you in the broader machinery lubrication community!
